Frequently Asked Questions

Is it free to reschedule my flight?

Whether it is +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] free to reschedule depends entirely on the specific fare class you purchased and when you make the request +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US]

Following the industry-wide shift in 2020 and 2021, most major carriers in the United States removed standard change fees for Main Cabin and higher tickets on domestic routes +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] This means that if you need to change your date, you are no longer paying a penalty fee for the privilege of changing your mind +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US]

However, "no change fee" does not mean "no cost +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] " You will still be required to pay the "fare difference +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] " This is the gap between what you originally paid for your ticket and the current price of the new flight you wish to take +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If the new flight costs more, you pay that extra amount +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If the new flight costs less, the airline typically provides you with a future travel credit, not a cash refund +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If you purchased a "Basic Economy" or similarly restricted fare, you generally cannot change your flight at all, or if you can, the fees can be quite high +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] Always check your confirmation email for the specific fare rules +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If you make the change within 24 hours of booking, you are protected by federal regulations and can often rebook for free or get a full refund to start over +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] For all other instances, utilize the airline's app for the easiest self-service experience to see your options without calling +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If you are an elite status member, you may also qualify for additional perks, such as waived same-day change fees +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US]

How does same-day flight changing work?

Same-day flight changing +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] is a specific service offered by many airlines that allows you to switch to a different flight on your original day of departure +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] This is different from a standard itinerary change because it must be done very close to your travel date—typically within 24 hours of your original departure +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] Most airlines offer two paths: "same-day standby" and "same-day confirmed +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] " With same-day standby, you are essentially requesting to be added to a list for a seat on an earlier or later flight, and you will only be cleared if a seat remains open after all confirmed passengers have boarded +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] This is often free +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] "Same-day confirmed" is a more expensive but guaranteed service where you pay a fee—often around $75—to secure a seat on a specific, preferred flight that has confirmed availability +1

(888)--(438)–1454 [US] Southwest Airlines is a notable exception in the industry, as they allow free same-day changes for all passengers as long as there is an open seat on the new flight, though you may still have to pay the fare difference +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If you are considering this, check your airline's app early in the morning on your travel day +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] It is often the best way to get home sooner or avoid a long layover +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If you have elite status with the airline, you might get these confirmed changes for free +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] Always remember that even for same-day changes, you usually must stick to the same route; you generally cannot change your departure or arrival city +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US]

Can I change my flight if I booked through an agency?

If you booked +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] your ticket through an online travel agency (OTA) like Expedia, Priceline, or Booking +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] com, you are subject to their specific customer service policies, which can be more cumbersome than dealing directly with an airline +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] Because the OTA technically "owns" the booking in the eyes of the airline's system, the airline's website might prevent you from making self-service changes to your itinerary +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] In these situations, you must contact the agency's support team to initiate the change +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] This can sometimes result in longer hold times and, in some cases, the agency may levy an additional service fee on top of any fare differences the airline requires +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If you are trying to change a flight and the OTA is proving difficult, some travelers find success by asking the OTA to "release the ticket" back to the airline, though this is not always possible +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] Before calling the agency, visit the airline's website to see if you can "find your trip" using your confirmation code +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] Sometimes, if the airline allows, you may be able to manage the booking directly on their site +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If the OTA insists on charging you high fees, always ask for a clear explanation of what the costs are, as they should be broken down into the airline's fare difference and the agency's own service charge +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] For the most flexibility in the future, it is highly recommended to book directly on the airline's own website to ensure you retain the ability to use their app for quick, fee-free changes +1

What should I do if my flight time changes?

When an airline +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] alters your flight schedule, it creates a unique window of opportunity for you to adjust your travel plans to better suit your needs +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] According to recent Department of Transportation (DOT) rulings, a "significant" schedule change—which is generally a delay of three hours or more for domestic flights or six hours for international ones—entitles you to options that you wouldn't otherwise have +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If you receive an email notifying you of such a change, do not immediately accept the new itinerary +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] Instead, take a moment to look at the airline's schedule to see if there is another flight that is actually more convenient for you +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] You can then call the airline and explain that the new, involuntary schedule change does not work for your plans +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] Because the airline is the one who caused the issue, they are often willing to switch you to a different, more desirable flight on the same route at no extra cost, even if that flight is normally much more expensive +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If no alternative flight is acceptable, you are legally entitled to a full cash refund of your ticket, regardless of whether your original fare was non-refundable +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] This is a much better outcome than paying a change fee +1 (888)--(438)–1454 [US] If an agent tells you that you are not eligible for a free change, try calling back; different agents often have different levels of discretion, and you may find one who is more helpful +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US]

How do I use a travel credit after changing?

If you have +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US] cancelled or changed a flight and were issued a travel credit, it is important to track that credit carefully until you are ready to book again +1

(888)--(438)--1454 [US] Most travel credits are stored in your airline account under your frequent flyer profile or tied to your original ticket number +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US] When you are ready to book your new flight, proceed through the standard booking process on the airline's website +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US] At the final payment screen, you will typically see an option to "Use a Credit," "Apply Voucher," or "Use eCredit +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US]

" You will need to enter your original ticket number or the credit code provided to you during the cancellation process +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US] If your new ticket is more expensive than the credit, you will simply pay the remaining balance with your credit card +1

(888)--(438)--1454 [US] If your new ticket is less expensive than the credit, the remaining value will usually stay in your account for future use, though you should verify the expiration date, as many credits expire one year from the original date of purchase +1

(888)--(438)--1454 [US] It is vital to keep your original confirmation emails, as these often contain the specific voucher numbers required for redemption +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US] If you have any trouble applying the credit online, you can call the airline, and a representative should be able to apply the credit for you over the phone +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US] Make sure to use the credit well before it expires, as once that date passes, the funds are almost always lost and non-recoverable +1 (888)--(438)--1454 [US]
